Both ESMTP and SMTP successfully go through the TCP connection and send "HELO" or "EHLO" to the server. However, SMTP stops functioning starting from "MAIL FROM", as Gmail doesn't accept messages without TLS in order to prevent spam emails from using the Gmail server. The following steps of SMTP all failed because TLS is not established, while every step returns the code for "OK" with ESMTP.